The election news thus far indicates that New York, Illinois, New Jersey, and probably Wisconsin have been added to the column of Democratic States, and that the Republicans have met with great losses in Michigan and Massachusetts. There is a reasonable probability that there will be a Democratic majority in the next United States Hope of Representatives. Never was there a more remark this political revolution. It is emphatically the voice of the people condemning usurpations, corruptions and imbecility in the Administration of the Government. This great revolution has been accomplished over the vast patronage of the party in power and a false appeal by those who wield that patronage and the destinies of the country to the prejudices and loyalty of the people. It is the sober, considerate, second and deliberate thought of the people, which seldom erra. This glorious result gives hope that the Government may yet be saved and the Union restored. Laus Deo.

Greeley on Contrabands.

It is wonderful how gradually, and with what wicked stealth, the Abolitionists advance toward the degradation of the white race. Since this war began, and long before, they have been constantly engaged in educating the public mind to the point of the equality of the races, and preparing the white labor of the country to make its bed with the African. The advocates of emancipation began by saving that the negroes of the South would remain there and work for wages. if made free, and that the Northern States would not be cursed with their presence. That was said to remove one of the objections which always arose in the minds of sensible men in the free States. Now the ground is changed, and a nearer approach is made to the ultimate aim of the abolition faction.

The New York Tribune of the 17th ult., has an article (published in the Sentinel of Monday last) which boldly advocates the employment of the negroes on the farms of the free States to the exclusion of white laborers who have long been the pride of the agricultural classes of the North west. This is the last dodge of the infernal spirit of Abolitionism, and it should meet at the threshhold a swift and indignant condemnation. In that article of the Tribune - written by were to kill all the cattle and horses therein and forbid the importation of more, so as to secure to themselves more work, they would commit the identical blunder that is made by those who object to negroes coming North to work. But is it a blunder? We regard it as more and worse.

We believe it is got up, not at all in the interest of white labor, but wholly in the interest of Jeff. Davis and his slave Confederacy We believe that its object is the nullification of the President's proclamation of freedom by com pelling the slaves whom the proclamation emancipates to grind on in the prison houses of the re-

We believe it a base appeal to the prejudice of the ignorant and imbruted, designed to extend and facilitate the sway of ignorance and bru Here we have the whole story, as told by GREELEY and his confederate Abolitionists. Those who prefer white labor and white men on the farm and in the shop, are, according to the Tribune's logic, "wholly in the interest of JEFF. DAvis and his slave Confederacy!" We expected it would come to that, and GREELEY has blurted it out at last. Those Republican and Democratic farmers who prefer the white son of their poorer neighbor, and gives him his fifteen dollars a month and a seat at his family table, in preference to a stolen slave from the South, are "wholly in the interest of JEFF. Davis"-that is traitors to their country. That is what the apostate son of the white race-the lowly and meanly minded GREELEY-says of the cultivators of the farms of the North west.

The Tribune philosopher is not disposed to haggle at anything short of forcing these negroes amongst the people of the free States. Those who object to it are not only JEFF. DAVIS'S tools, but he declares that all who prefer white labor to black, and say so, make "a base appeal to the prejudices of the ignorant and imbruted"-that is to say, to the white laborers of the land. A industrious and devoted white laborer, deserves the scorn and contempt of every son of toil from the Aroostook to the Sabine.

The people of Indiana, by the Constitution of the State, which was adopted by one hundred thousand majority, have said that these negroes shall nor come within this Commonwealth. Does GREELLY see any way of forcing them here against that Constitution? Can himself and his Abolition tools in New England invent any mode of escaping that proposition? Are they prepared to fight them into the State? Well, le them toy it. Before the experiment is inaugu rated, GREELEY had just as well raise his quota for the Army of the Union, and stop the draft, so long threatened but never executed amongst his Abolition howlers "down East." Indiana will take care of herself in regard to these negroes, and if the Abolitionists desire their services in New England, let them enjoy their prize in peace. There is just room enough out here for the white people, to whom this State belongs.
